GOODWIN TO THE JOURNAL.

He Says Roberts Embodies All That Has Made Utah a Storm Centre for Nearly Forty Years.

SALT LAKE, Utah, Dec. 20.—Judge Goodwin, editor of the Salt Lake Tribune, was asked by the Journal to-day for his opinion of the eligibility of Brigham H. Roberts to a seat in Congress. In reply he sent the following statement: "Mr. Roberts was regularly nominated and fairly elected. In the ordinary understanding of a contest, I think none can be made to dispossess him of his seat. The only way must be, if at all, through expulsion on the ground that he is not a citizen and is an active polygamist. In the Forty-seventh or Forty-eighth Congress, if I remember correctly, a law was passed making the living with two or more women at the same time as wives an offense punishable by fine and imprisonment in the penitentiary under Utah law.

"Roberts was fined, imprisoned and disfranchised. He has never since ceased to live in the same relation with his plural wives. He has never been pardoned. As a consequence of the amnesty proclamations of both President Cleveland and President Harrison will reveal that none were pardoned, save those who had refrained from breaking the laws after the manifesto of President Woodruff, of the Mormon Church, in 1890, and on the express condition that they shall in future obey the laws.

"The question which will be presented to the Fifty-sixth Congress, if any at all, will be whether that Congress will permit a person to occupy a seat, who, for breaking a law was disfranchised by a former Congress and who ever since has continually persisted in breaking that law.

"During the campaign, in a published reply to an argument presented by Governor Wells, Roberts justified his course on the score that no more through which Utah was admitted into the Union only demanded that no more plural marriages should be solemnized. The whole chain of events disproves this. The testimony of the then president of the Mormon Church was direct upon the point that his manifesto was intended to take away every reproach under the law from his people. The first State Legislature passed a law legitimizing all children of plural wives up to a given date.

"My judgment as to the effect of permitting Roberts to retain his seat is that it will be to practically restore old conditions, except as to promiscuous plural marriages. My belief is that some church officials, including one apostate, have determined to make a test case to establish whether polygamists shall any longer be under a ban, even if they continue to live their religion.

"Save for three months, three years ago, Roberts has never been in active politics. He has made his fame as a churchman. Up to six or eight years ago he openly declared before the church altars that the priesthood of the Mormon Church had a right to the temporal, as well as spiritual rule of the world.

"He never learned the elementary principles on which this Republic was founded. He until after he had served his term in the penitentiary. In other words, he embodied in his own person all that made Utah a storm centre for well nigh forty years. He is, however, a gifted man, and if given a seat in the House he will years. He has made his fame as a churchman. Up to six or eight years ago he openly declared before the church altars that the priesthood of the Mormon Church had a right to the temporal, as well as spiritual rule of the world.

OBJECTIONS TO ROBERTS.

He is a polygamist and advocates the doctrines of the Mormon Church. He has brought polygamy into Congress under the guise of piety.

The election of Roberts to Congress is an insult to the nation. The bringing of his plurality of wives to Washington is an insult to the women of the nation and is in contempt of its laws.

By sending him to Congress, Utah has violated her solemn pledge to abolish polygamy in order to obtain admission to the Union.

Burial of Stephen H. Tyng.
Funeral services over the remains of the Rev. Dr. Stephen H. Tyng, who died in Paris on November 17, were held yesterday in St. Bartholomew's church. The usual burial service of the Episcopal Church was read, the Rev. David H. Greer, officiating, the singing choir of the church furnishing the vocal music. There was no sermon. A large number of old friends of the famous New York preacher of ten years ago were in the church. Many of them were from the Church of the Holy Trinity, of which he was the pastor before he went to Paris. Interment was in Woodlawn.

BAR OUT ROBERTS, SAYS SENATOR CHANDLER.

Washington, Dec. 20.—All Washington is aroused over the case of Congressman-elect Brigham H. Roberts, of Utah. The election of the polygamist to a seat in the House is the one topic of discussion. Prominent women, clergymen and others are taking a hand in the fight against the Mormon. Speaking of the case to-day, Senator Chandler, of New Hampshire, said:

"As a member of the other house, I hardly think it fair to discuss the eligibility of Representatives in the House, but as an individual I feel free to express my views on the Roberts case. In my speech on the admission of Senator Roush, back in the Fifty-third Congress, I gave my views on polygamy in detail.

"My opinion is that if Roberts lives with but one wife, while he supports another to whom he was married prior to the anti-Mormon law, and does not actually live with both women, he should not be elected out of his seat in Congress. If, however, he is still living a polygamist life, in the contemplation of the law and in defiance of the statutes against polygamy, then I have no hesitation in saying that he should not be elected to the House.

"The following statements, made by the clergymen of Washington, show how they stand on the question of seating Roberts: Rev. Henry W. Satterlee, D. D., L. L. D., Protestant Episcopal Bishop of the Diocese of Washington—There are certain ruling ideas of civilized life that belong to all civilized human beings. Among all persons dominated by these ideas the consensus of opinion is that polygamy is a crime. The family is the unit of civilized life, and anything that tends to break it up is pernicious. If there is any law which forbids a man to be kept from taking his seat in Congress I should say most strongly that he should be prevented.

Rev. Francis S. Hamlin, D. D., Church of the Covenant (Presbyterian)—If Roberts is living with three wives he is a polygamist, as such he is a law-breaker. In my opinion a lawbreaker should not be allowed to become a lawmaker.

Rev. Lucien Clark, D. D., Foundry M. E. Church—Utah has broken faith with the Union. Some way could and should be found to keep this man from taking his seat.

GRIP EPIDEMIC The Treatment TO BE DEFEATED. That Will Cure It

A New System of Treatment Has Been Discovered for the Cure of Influenza or Grip.

Noted Specialist Makes Public the Result of His Practice and Experience in This Disease.

Those Who Call at or Write to His Laboratories May Obtain a Complete Free Course of Treatment.

THE GRIP BACILLI AS SKETCHED UNDER THE MICROSCOPE BY DR. CYRUS EDSON.

The article which appeared in this paper yesterday has drawn the attention of its hundreds of thousands of readers to a condition which is a menace to millions.

The Grip is again epidemic. It has been shown that it is an infectious disease and an extremely dangerous one.

That it is due to the presence and growth of a germ only lately discovered.

President Murphy, of the Health Department, and Dr. Biggs, the bacteriologist, believe that steps should be taken to declare it a contagious disease and to record every case of it, the same as those of scarlet fever, measles or smallpox.

This is to be decided upon to-day at a meeting of the Board.

In the meantime New Yorkers will no doubt be glad to know what to do when they think they are threatened with or attacked by the Grip.

Have You the Grip? The symptoms of Grip in the beginning are partly nervous and partly those of a common cold.

It generally commences with a sense of chill or a coldness down the spine, anxiety, feverishness, headache over the eyes. This may go on to pains in the limbs and back, rattling cough, nausea, loss of appetite, painful watery eyes, sneezing, running at the nose and extreme prostration.

If you have any or all of these symptoms you have probably been attacked by the Grip.

The Cure Is Simple. As Grip is caused by a germ or bacillus, obviously the only natural way to cure it is by destroying the germ. Scientists have been studying the germ and its habits for some time and at last a method of treatment has been perfected at the Doctor Slocum Laboratories, which has proved to be a positive success.

The Dr. Slocum method destroys and annihilates the germs which cause all the trouble, and by its specific action on the disordered nerve centres cures the effects of the poison which with the germs have infected the system.

There is no doubt at all of the efficacy of this simple method of treatment, which has proved successful wherever it has been put into practice.
